Teachers' Wage Request Hinges On Levy Approval

Supt. Kerr, Granted One-Year Contract, Will Retire In '59

The Salem Board of Education, meeting in special session Monday night, renewed contracts of teaching and administrative personnel, including Superintendent of Schools E. S. Kerr, who was granted a one-year contract.

The board discussed giving the teachers a request wage raise but stressed that it would be contingent on voters' renewal of an operating levy next fall, plus an additional levy to raise needed funds.

Superintendent Kerr's contract, expiring Aug. 31, was renewed until Aug. 31, 1959, at which time Mr. Kerr plans to retire after 45 years devoted to education, 27 of which have been as superintendent of Salem public schools.

The board granted Mr. Kerr's request for an additional $500 to cover expense account needs, which brings the total of the superintendent's contract to $10,000 annually.

The contract of Schools Business Manager D. M. Fadely also was renewed for three years. This contract can be opened at any time by the board or by mutual agreement between business manager and board for salary increases or other purposes it was agreed.

Mr. Fadely also asked for an increase to cover expense account needs. The board approved an increase of $500, making a total of $7,500 per year for the business manager's salary.

Orelin Naragon, vice president of the board, pointed out that he wished it to be understood that "the increase was not to be regarded as an expense account increase, but as a definite salary increase for a job well done, and for service which Mr. Fadely has given to Salem public schools over and above specified duties."

The teachers' present salary schedule will stand until Dec. 31, 1958. This calls for an expenditure of $676,280 per year for teachers' salaries.

Then, if the school operating levy passes in the November election, a new salary schedule approved last night by the board, will go into effect on Jan. 1, 1959, calling for an additional $26,340 more per year for teachers salary schedules.

At the next board meeting, July 7, a decision will be selected to operate the cafeteria at the new senior high school. Several persons have indicated an interest in this position, although as yet no formal applications have been submitted.

Weeks Says Business Statistics Look Better

Urges 'Little by Little' Arms Approach

Macmillan Calls for World Peace Start

BALTIMORE (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan called today for a start toward building world peace through a "little by little" approach to discarding all big weapons—atomic and others.

Macmillan's speech was prepared for commencement exercises at Johns Hopkins University, where President Eisenhower was to introduce him as "a great free world leader." Both were given honorary degrees by the school.

Macmillan said the Western world alliance has served its purpose well and must be continued as a shield against Communist aggression.

"But I am not without hope," he said, "that we may succeed little by little, if not all at once, in making some progress toward the relaxation of tensions in the world."

Macmillan said it would be foolish to expect any summit meeting to bridge the gap between East and West.

He added, however, that "if conditions are favorable and if the will is there they might make, first, a little progress here, and then a little there and so bring us out of a condition of stalemate into one of negotiation."

But he said it can be done "only if both sides are willing. We on our side certainly are willing."

Macmillan said both the United States and Britain have rightly held that a beginning can be made in controlled disarmament of both nuclear and conventional weapons.

"Control is really the essence," he said.

"Once both sides agree to experiment in this we shall have really made a start. We will have established a beginning of confidence. And confidence means peace."

As he did in an address Sunday at De Pauw University, Greencastle, Ind., Macmillan urged lowering of trade barriers which restrict the flow of goods between countries.

Eisenhower, in his brief introductory remarks, said Macmillan "is respected and admired in all the countries of the world that are free permitted to know the facts of today's world and personalities."

Presiding over the ceremony was the President's brother Dr. Milton Eisenhower, president of the university.

Commerce Head Says Economy Outlook Bright

Complete Health Not Due for Some Months, He Says During Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Weeks today reported that recent business statistics "have looked better than at any time since the decline started last year."

"The field day of the hand-wringing pessimist is about over," Weeks said in a speech to the 43rd National Conference on Weights and Measures.

"If public confidence continues to grow, if business continues to spur the upturn, if government continues to keep away from gumming the works by unsound legislation, the economy should continue to improve."

Weeks acknowledged that the economy "still has some months to go before it recovers complete health," but added, "The outlook is bright for better times later this year."

The secretary noted that business inventories were reduced by 800 million dollars in April. This suggests that many companies must soon go back to the market for new stocks, Weeks said.

He cited these other statistics: Steel mill operations have advanced from a low of 47 per cent of theoretical capacity in April to 61 per cent last week. Construction activity rose 10 per cent in May over April. Employment in May climbed 1,200,000 while joblessness slipped by 200,000.

In a related development, the Associated General Contractors of America, Inc., reported a majority of its chapters across the country have noted an improvement or a leveling-off of the business recession.

Results of a telegraphic survey indicated that building construction is normal or better in 57 of 23 areas reporting; that highway construction is normal or better in 50 of 59 areas reporting, and heavy construction is normal or better in 38 to 50 areas.

Khrushchev May Purge Top Rival

Signs Indicate Ouster Of Suslov to Result

By The Associated Press

Signs from Moscow indicate that Nikita Khrushchev may have pulled the rug out from under his chief Kremlin rival Mikail Suslov preparatory to purging him.

Suslov is a secretary of the Soviet Communist party's Central Committee, outranked only by First Secretary Khrushchev himself. He is also a member of the Presidium of the Central Committee, the group of top committee members which wields the real power.

At least until recently he headed all the propaganda and cultural work of the Kremlin, was a leading party theoretician and had charge of the Kremlin's relations with foreign Communist parties.

Some evidence indicates that Suslov on occasion has managed with some success to organize opposition in the Central Committee to policies of Khrushchev.

The signs that Suslov may be on the way out are too clear to be missed:

1. He has been absent from public appearances of the Kremlin leadership since May 16.
2. Particularly important was Suslov's absence from the recent Communist summit meeting, which demonstrated beyond any doubt that he had been removed from his former task of conducting relations with foreign Communist parties.
3. On May 17 it became known

Dallas Bishop Gets 1-15 Years Judge Buzzard Sets $5,000 Appeal Bond

LISBON — Former East Liverpool special officer Dallas Bishop, 40, of Salineville was sentenced to one to 15 years in the state penitentiary Monday by Common Pleas Judge Raymond Buzzard for the October, 1952, burglary of the Smith and Phillips furniture store in East Liverpool.

Judge Buzzard denied Bishop's motion for a new trial and set an appeal bond of $5,000.

The Court of Appeals will convene in the county Sept. 9 and Bishop's case will be heard then. Meanwhile, Bishop made bond and obtained temporary release.

Convicted May 18

Bishop was convicted May 18 on the burglary charge, and the subsequent motion by his attorneys for a new trial was rejected by Judge Buzzard.

Bishop was one of seven East Liverpool police officers and special patrolmen indicted by the grand jury in the 1956 police burglary scandal.

He confessed to two burglaries and initially was a state's witness, along with Policeman Robert McBane, 37, who admitted eight burglaries.

Both Bishop and McBane testified in the first two trials. Bishop's statements, however, repudiated the 12-page confession he had made, thereby scuttling the state's case against the police.

At the end of the second case, Bishop moved for permission to change his plea from guilty to not guilty, but was refused by Judge Joel H. Sharp, whose ruling was later reversed by the Court of Appeals. The latter court's decision was subsequently upheld by the Ohio Supreme Court.

Bishop initially went on trial last March, for the 1954 burglary of the Berman Lumber Co. The jury

Ike Forces Rap Labor Curb Bill Say Proposed Plan Is 'Ineffective'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration, in an unexpected attack, contends a proposed Senate bill aimed at curbing labor unions is "completely ineffective."

The administration stand was set forth Monday in a statement by Secretary of Labor Mitchell, who said, in effect, the bill is worse than no bill at all.

"We need legislation that will add to, not subtract from the existing protections which the law now provides for union members, individual workers and the public," he said.

Senators John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.), two of the bill's principal sponsors, promptly challenged the administration attack. They denounced it as stemming either from ignorance of the bill's provisions or from political pressure.

In releasing Mitchell's statement, the Labor Department said it represented the administration's views. Mitchell himself is attending a meeting in Switzerland.

Mitchell said the bill, approved last week by the Senate Labor Committee and now awaiting Senate action, follows some of the House Leaders Await Ike Aid On Trade Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders looked today to a plea from President Eisenhower to help them put across a five-year extension of the reciprocal trade program.

They expected the plea, in the form of a letter to Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, to give them an edge of 20 to 30 votes in Wednesday's showdown balloting.

"We are getting stronger by the moment," Martin said, "but we are leaving nothing to chance."

Democratic supporters also urged Eisenhower to speak out saying, "What is needed is a very personal appeal by you." The 28 Democratic House members added in a telegram to Eisenhower that "only your leadership, expressed in the most personal and forceful fashion, will enable all of us to achieve the successful passage of the bill."

FM Radio Station At New Senior High Gets Board Okay

Members of Salem's present board of education may become known as pioneers in Ohio in helping to establish the first radio station in connection with a high school.

Tentative approval was granted last night to the proposal of Russell Jones of 1990 Jones Drive to build a broadcasting studio and a 100,000 watt FM (frequency modulation) transmitter next to the new Senior High School on E. Sixth St.

The tentative approval is contingent upon receiving further professional legal information and clarification of every detail from Mr. Jones.

Mr. Jones will assume the total cost of building a studio, conforming with the design of the new school; all technical equipment will be purchased and operational supervision conducted by Mr. Jones, board members stressed.

This will mean that interested Salem high school students will have a complete radio programing and technical operating laboratory at their disposal. Local sports, music, and educational programs will be produced and engineered by the students. It will, in effect, amount to an on-the-job training program in all phases of radio station operation.

The Federal Communication Commission will assign an FM channel.

Council At Lisbon Blocks Pay Measure

LISBON — An ordinance granting wage increases for the water works superintendent and sewage display plant operators was defeated by a 3-2 vote on a second reading, when Village Council met last night.

The measure would have boosted the superintendent's pay to $390 a month.

Councilman Richard Bloor, who voted "yes" originally on the measure, changed his vote last night to join E. G. Heilbroner in voting against the ordinance. Affirmative votes were cast by W. J. Loudon, Dean Stockman and Robert Kelm.

Ernest L. Reisinger is waterworks superintendent.

An ordinance in which Mr. and Mrs. Sol Firestone and Mr. and Mrs. William Haffley gave the village land to build a sidewalk on Thomas Road north to W. Chestnut St. passed on a third reading.

Council sold the extra storage garage next to Village Hall to George M. Varga of North Canton, who will remove the building, grade it and blacktop it and make room for sidewalks.

Takes Over Newly Created Job

School Veteran Gets Ohio Education Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The job is new, but the man who's taking it is a veteran.

The new post is assistant state superintendent in charge of instruction. The State Board of Education created it Monday at the recommendation of Dr. E. E. Holt, state superintendent of public instruction.

Appointed to the job was Harold J. Bowers, 53, a career man who has been with the State Department of Education for 22 years. During that time, he has been director of teacher education and certification, working out of Ashville in Pickaway County.

Before that, Bowers was a teacher and administrator in Pickaway County schools. He is a former president of the National Assn. of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification.

He'll get $5,000 more a year in the new job, moving up to a $14,000 annual salary. And he'll have charge of all public instruction in the state.

Bowers' assistant, Albert C. May, moves into a $9,000-a-year job as state education and certification director. May joined the department in January. He has been a principal in the Stuebenville, Marion and Martins Ferry school systems.

Other decisions that came out of the board meeting included: Assignment of Kent State University to make a school district reorganization study requested by Fayette County. No contract has been signed.

Acceptance of the resignations of Ray G. Wood, director of the Division of Ohio Scholarship Tests for 26 years and Marlow B. Perrin, director of the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation. Edward J. Mortarty was appointed to the latter post.

Granting of authority to superintendents of county, city and exempted village school boards to excuse students when emergencies arise at home. This generally has been in effect, but is now spelled out at the local level.

Setting a public hearing on standards for colleges and universities offering the arts and sciences degree for the first time. It will be July 1 (1 p.m. EST) in Columbus.

Renewing regulations governing payment of state funds to school districts for purchase of buses.

Taking further steps to create one new school district out of the territory contained in Risingsun and Montgomery local districts (Wood County), Jackson, Rollersville and Helena locals (Sardusky) and Jackson - Liberty (Seneca). Local boards must still be offered a chance to object, and a special meeting on July 15 (10 a.m. EST) is scheduled to hear any requests for modification. The issue will be voted on in November.

Approved transfer of 300 acres from Crawford County's Mount Zion local to Bucyrus City District (still to go on the November ballot).

Disapproved transfer of a portion of Portsmouth City School District to Scioto County's Wheelburg local.

Asked the state superintendent to determine if there should be a countywide survey of school districts in Columbiana County.

Suggested a new school district in Noble County, made up of seven local boards and the exempted village of Caldwell.

Police Guard Man Who Admits Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police placed an around-the-clock guard in General Hospital over a 43-year-old man who they say admitted a slaying. He was shot in the arm while trying to flee from Central Police Headquarters.

The man, identified as Eddie Vaughn, had been picked up Monday night for questioning in the death of his common law wife, Mrs. Marie Mason, 26. Mrs. Mason was found lying under a sheet in the couple's fourth floor apartment here.

Police said the windows had been sealed and the apartment was filled with fumes from an open gas valve in the kitchen.

Police said Vaughn told them he choked Mrs. Mason with a belt during a quarrel. While police were preparing to fingerprint him, Vaughn fled down a corridor toward an exit. He was wounded just as he reached the door.

Senate Bar to Hear Impeached Judge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Judge Raulston Schoolfield appears at the bar of the Tennessee Senate today to answer 24 impeachment articles returned against him by the House last month.

The trial is the climax of action which began six months ago with charges before a U. S. Senate committee that $20,000 in Teamsters Union funds was paid to fix a union violence case in his court.

The Chattanooga Criminal Court judge will be fighting for his legal reputation and the right to hold public office in the future, but little of his present office remains to be salvaged.

His impeachment by the House automatically suspended him from office pending final State Senate action, and Democratic voters in his county refused to renominate him last week for the new term starting Sept. 1.

Watch Out For String-Pullers

Two notions that have endeared themselves to Americans with a weakness for other forms of government have been knocked in the head by the French shakeup.

The first notion is that the United States would be better off if it bred and maintained a large stable of professional governmenters, who would carry on through thick and thin. The theory behind this notion is that the civil servants would run the government, leaving the politicians free to run the balloting. There would be no amateurs messing in public affairs.

But in France, when Charles de Gaulle announced the composition of his "trusteeship," the same old political faces were in the lineup, causing some critics who had hoped for something better to lose faith in France's savior before he had time to make his first move.

The other notion is that the United States would be better governed if its executive head were subject to parliamentary upset, like the premier of France and the prime minister of Britain.

This notion usually gets an airing during the tag-end days of an administration that has lost its political momentum. Someone blandly suggests that the president should resign and let a successor form a new cabinet, in makeshift imitation of the way the French and British react when a government cannot command confidence.

But French politicians had pulled the string on so many premiers in such rapid succession that they had destroyed confidence in government. The first thing De Gaulle demanded as premier was decree power for six months. The thing he has been demanding for the last 12 years is a form of government more like that in the United States, so the head of the state can get something done without being hamstrung every whipstitch by a harassing obstructionists.

With Independence Day looming ahead, perhaps it isn't too soon to be grateful for more political stability than has been achieved under any other form of government.

Greatest Idea Since the Wheel

When the chuckling, wise-cracking and protesting have died down, public transportation officials all over the country will get down to serious study of an agreement between New York City's Transit Authority and the B. T. Babbitt Co. to swap rides for trade coupons.

Beginning July 1, three coupons from Babbitt products will be good for a free token to ride on Transit Authority subways and buses. The coupons will bring five cents apiece to the Transit Authority from the Babbitt Co., the equivalent of 15 cents for each free token.

This is the same as the existing 15-cent fare which the Transit Authority says must be increased unless there is an improvement in its revenues, meaning a substantial increase in the number of New Yorkers using public transportation. That is why the Transit Authority sees merit in the arrangement.

The Babbitt Co. sees merit, because it is putting on a major campaign to increase the sale of its products in the world's largest city and the ride coupon plan will be a widely publicized detail of the campaign.

It is assumed the general public will find merit in the plan because it offers a chance to get something for nothing.

What transportation officials will want to know is whether the number of riders will increase because that would produce a net gain in revenue. If it could be demonstrated in New York City that a way has been devised to lure back to public transportation a substantial number of the people who have been using private transportation, transportation companies would think it was the greatest idea since invention of the wheel.

25 Years Cleared Up the Doubts

The 25th anniversary of the founding of Ohio's famed Muskingum Conservancy District has been suitably commemorated with praise for the results shown by this pioneer effort in flood control and conservation.

It is especially gratifying that Bryce Browning, the district's secretary-treasurer and its tireless champion at a time when the idea was not popular, has come in for special recognition.

Mr. Browning, more than most of the people who look upon the Muskingum District as an unmitigated blessing, can recall how much blood, sweat and tears went into the evolution of the idea that Ohio should take advantage of federal funds that had been made available for such public works.

Of the 47 million dollars that was invested in the district's development, the federal government put up 42 million. The rest came from state funds and from four million dollars' worth of state-backed bonds. The final payments have been made on the bonds.

Part of this pioneer effort in flood control and conservation was to sell the idea that a project which had been kicked around ever since the disastrous flood of 1913 in the Ohio valley could be got under way by using federal funds.

There even was resistance to the idea that the U.S. Corps of Engineers would be in charge of the project. People resented it as a claimed intrusion on state rights.

What was achieved, besides the physical development of the Muskingum District, was a new concept of federal, state and local cooperation in a project for public welfare—and it was not easy. But gradually the idea took form and it finally was realized that in a project whose magnitude at the time was too great for the resources of the state it was both desirable and proper to depend on the greater resources of the federal government.

Five hundred persons had lost their lives in the 1913 flood. Estimated property damage reached the staggering total of 300 million dollars. It was worth what it cost to avert a repetition of such a disaster, including the surrender of the principle that state and local government should tackle the job alone or not at all.

Now is the time of year when there is real activity in straw hats, especially those that blow off.

Couples who are busy raising children find real happiness without even looking for it.

Once Over

Everybody's proposing marriage to Elfrida von Nardroff, winner of $237,500 on a quiz show, so here goes:

Dear Elfrida: I have been following you on TV. I felt attracted to you at $50,000. At $100,000 my heart pounded. When you got to $150,000 I knew you were all I could ask for as a wife, a mother and economic security.

The night you passed $200,000 I thought of Juliet, Cleopatra, Marguerite, Hetty Green, the Rockefeller Foundation, Lady Guinivere and the Federal Reserve.

Then when you ran your winnings to $237,500 I went all to pieces emotionally and knew it would be hard to live without you, taxes and all.

YOUR EYES BECAME "the fairest stars of heaven." They were deep pools of beauty, genuine upper bracket pools. I gazed into them and saw charm, loveliness and an end of the recession, not to mention new horizons of prosperity and the broader life.

And, Elfrida, such lips, such cheeks, such financial independence! I do not tell this to all the girls. My girl friends have lacked brains. (What is worse they have lacked money.)

Make me happy, Elfrida. I know no woman who could mean so much to me in these days of financial uncertainty, unemployment, declining car loadings, etc. We could know a wonderful domestic life at 5 per cent on 200 grand.

OH, MY DARLING, be my encyclopedia! How I would like leading you to the altar and hear you promise to love, honor and come up with the right answers! What joy to take you for better or for at least another tie!

Elfrida, I say in the words of Romeo "But, soft! What light through yonder window breaks? It is Fort Knox and Juliet has it won."

Be mine and end my iron deficiency. Love and kisses. Please quit now while you're ahead, as I am awful nervous. Do not let the income tax bite come between us, my love. Joe.

MUCH CRITICISM of de Gaulle as obstinate and difficult is based on his refusal to go along meekly with F.D.R. and Churchill after the war. But, looking at the shape the world is in today as a result of decisions, do they look so smart?

Sir Louis Sterling, one of Britain's richest men and famed philanthropist, knighted by the king, was born on the lower East Side, deep in New York's slums. He went to London in his youth, with $24 in cash, to sell gramophones and became one of the top men in England's financial world. Another case of an underprivileged boy who managed to stand privation without getting "all mixed up."

Walter Reuther is in a situation where he wishes his windshield wiper were working better so he could see what's ahead.

Leonard Hall, ex-head of GOP National Committee, will run for 'gubnor' of New York. (Things must be getting tough all over.)

Costs of hospital insurance are so high that even insurance against hospital insurance would not solve the situation.

'Just Helping to Get More Money in Circulation'

Eisenhower and Macmillan

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan get together here this week they'll be talking about a couple of other fellows: French Premier de Gaulle and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Although Khrushchev wants a summit conference, it wouldn't be much without De Gaulle. Since he's been in power only a week and has plenty of troubles at home, it isn't certain De Gaulle could attend or would want to.

And he might be unpredictable if he got there. Needing all the French unity and respect he can get, he couldn't afford any sign of me-tooism. The French might take it for weakness.

But Eisenhower and Macmillan have more at stake in De Gaulle than a summit meeting. All North Africa may turn against the West unless he produces an Algerian solution which both the French and the Moslem nationalists can accept.

There's something else for Eisenhower and Macmillan to think about, even though the feeling in Washington at the moment seems to be that De Gaulle will keep France glued to its Western alliances:

If he begins to lose strength in France, there's no telling what retreats or concessions he may make to France's conglomeration of political parties to save something of his plans and his prestige.

No doubt Eisenhower and Macmillan will look relaxed when they pose for pictures at the White House. But there isn't much for them to be relaxed about.

There's the growing hostility to the West in the Middle East. The riots in Lebanon are an example. And crafty Khrushchev is a pretty puzzle all by himself.

He's using trade and aid with the backward countries to get a Soviet foothold. And now he wants more trade with the West — particularly the United States — for another reason: to build up Soviet industry.

Macmillan and the British want more Soviet trade. But so far the official reaction in Washington has been pretty negative.

Two things would strengthen Khrushchev's grip at home: disarmament or more machinery, either of which would enable him to provide more consumer goods.

It's doubtful he wants disarmament, since it would be tougher to keep the satellites in line or pressure the Soviet neighbors. So his best bet for more consumer goods seems to be more trade.

It's equally doubtful this country could afford — for military and economic reasons — to reach any real disarmament agreement either. For two reasons:

1. Any weakening of Western military strength would let the Soviets increase their pressure, internal and external, on those around them.

2. With this country putting around 40 billion dollars into defense — and still unable to wipe out the recession — it doesn't take much imagination to see what a big cut in defense spending would do here.

Nevertheless, Eisenhower, Macmillan and Khrushchev have to spend a lot of time talking disarmament.

If they ever do get to the summit, the most that seems likely to come of it is some lessening of tensions but no major solutions.

Out of the Ordinary

By TRUMAN TWILL

The boys in Detroit "protesteth too much" against small cars. They admit their doubts are gnawing at them while they shout at the tops of their voices that they know what they are doing and that it is exactly right.

They can prove it with statistics. That is their trouble.

It shouldn't have to be pointed out to anyone as smart as the boys in Detroit that statistics have led people smarter than they are up the garden path. All that statistics can show is what most people have been doing most of the time, or what most people think they would like to be doing most of the time.

As far as anything that obvious is concerned, the boys in Detroit or the boys anywhere else would be further ahead if they relied on their own judgment, which would be as reliably average as anything the statisticians could run up on an electronic computer.

The trick is not to find out what is in plain sight but to ferret out what cannot be seen now but is going to be important later, like the slump of interest in going to the movies, the avalanche of stay-at-home votes that buried Thomas E. Dewey alive in 1948 and the creeping revulsion against Detroit designs that is causing the U.S. auto industry to justify itself like a kid who forgot to put out the cat.

The industry let itself be played for a sucker by the credo, that whatever most Americans want is right and eventually will turn out to be what all Americans want.

It just isn't so.

Most Americans want the kind of trash that is blotting out everything else on television. But some Americans are writing off TV as a flop.

Most Americans want a kind of education that produces a diploma with the least possible effort. But some Americans are sick of organized ignorance in their school systems.

Most Americans move their lips when they read and are vague about both reading and writing. But some Americans are not satisfied with a comic-book level of communication.

Most Americans will lap up whatever the politician with the loudest voice and the quietest conscience tells them. But some Americans no longer believe anything any politician tells them and are being accused of "apathy."

Most Americans believe baseball is the national game and they must be loyal to it. Some Americans believe, on the other hand, that there is nothing sacred about baseball and it is not unpatriotic to say basketball is the national game, not baseball.

They are a minority but their absence hurts at the baseball box-office and their enthusiasm about basketball makes a baseball buff suspect, un-American activities may be to blame.

This is roughly the situation in Detroit, which is bellowing and bumbling about a sport of interest in an automobile that would be cheaper to buy, cheaper to support and easier to park. This would be un-American, warns Detroit. Most Americans wouldn't touch such a thing with a 10-foot pole, says its statisticians.

Of course, they wouldn't. But does that make enemy agents out of Americans who would touch 'em with their own hands?

Is this country now so crowded with statistical averages that mass producers must rationalize their stereotypes by attacking the loyalty of people who want something "out of the ordinary"?

Little Rock Mystery

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Why Weren't U.S. Marshals Sent?

The tragedy at Little Rock may have important legal consequences that were not foreseen when federal troops were used at Central High School there to enforce a court decree on the supposition that no other means were available.

Virgil T. Blossom, superintendent of David Lawrence schools at Little Rock, has just made a startling revelation in federal court. He has testified that he school board a Little Rock asked for federal marshals to enforce the court's decree and that the request was refused by Judge Ronald Davies. This fact has never before been publicly known.

Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi, Democrat, in a speech before the Mississippi Bar Association a few days ago made the point that there was no law authorizing the use of federal troops and that U.S. marshals should have been required to perform the task of enforcing the court's decree.

Mr. Stennis now has written to Comptroller General Campbell asking him to look into the legality of payments made to Arkansas National Guardsmen during their period of federal service. He was asked for an independent determination as to the legality of payment of such funds, because they were originally appropriated for national defense.

The comptroller general has replied that he will investigate the matter and render a decision.

THE MISSISSIPPI senator, who is an eminent lawyer, says that none of the conditions set forth in the law which was cited in the President's proclamation really existed in Little Rock. He adds:

"There was no danger of invasion or rebellion and no indication that the President was unable with the regular forces to execute the laws of the United States. Moreover, his section requires that orders to call into the federal service members of the National Guard 'shall be issued through the governors of the states.'"

"No order of this type was issued by the governor of Arkansas as required. Hence, the conclusion is inescapable that the calling into federal service of the National Guard of the State of Arkansas was unauthorized and contrary to statutory requirements."

On the specific use of even federal troops — not necessarily the state's National Guard — Sen. Stennis says that the resort to military force was unauthorized by law or the Constitution. He says: "There was no real attempt to try civil remedies — much less exhaust them. There was no real effort to enforce the court decree by using the U.S. marshal's office or by augmenting his staff through a posse comitatus."

"There was no real attempt to try the injunctive process with its ever present threat of contempt proceedings. The only persons who were enjoined by the federal court, the governor and the Arkansas guard officers, readily obeyed the court mandate.

"GOVERNMENTAL action taken at Little Rock follows the most disturbing pattern of our time — that is, the trend toward interpretation of law in terms of expediency."

"This confusion of authority and initiative which led to the school segregation cases has led to the Little Rock situation."

"The present President of the United States is not a wilful, nor reckless nor mischievous man. But some future president, with a less lofty regard for his past order political pressures can well take refuge in this precedent in an attempt to rule with arbitrary power."

What the Mississippi senator said about the failure to use the U.S. marshal's office is very significant. It is backed up now by the testimony of Supt. Blossom. An extract from the official transcript of last Thursday in federal court reads as follows:

"Richard Butler (attorney for the school board): Mr. Blossom, you were also asked on cross-examination about your seeking of help or lack of seeking help from various agencies which might have assisted you and the school board in effectively disciplining various people either — well, by any process. I'll ask you whether or not you asked for instructions from the previous federal judge who sat on this case."

"Mr. Blossom: We feel that we counseled with and sought any guidance and help that any responsible agency had in the matter, with reference to Judge Davies under actual instruction of the board and after a full conference and discussion on it. I went to Judge Davies, under actual instruction of the board and after a full conference and discussion on it, I went to Judge Davies and asked for his help — asked for the United States marshal to help in this problem — and we were turned down."

THE MYSTERY is: Why did Judge Davies refuse to assign U.S. marshals? In many an instance of civil disturbance in past history thousands of assistant marshals have been deputized to maintain order.

This is usually effective because it is a federal offense for any citizen to interfere with a U.S. marshal who is carrying out the orders of a federal court.

The federal laws today specifically forbid the use of the armed forces of the United States to enforce court orders.

This is the task of U.S. marshals. If they fail, they can in some instances call on military forces to help them but this is limited to "laws of the United States" and is not applicable to the enforcement of all court orders.

The use of federal troops to enforce a court order that did not involve any federal law, especially with the U.S. marshals were not availed of, makes the Little Rock precedent unique in all history and its legality or illegality has yet to be determined.

Hollywood Glamor

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Who took the glamor out of show business? "The stars themselves," said Vivian Blaine firmly.

"They did it by letting down the bars of their privacy and inviting the world into their homes. Of course, a star has to have a home life, or his existence is pretty vacuous."

"But I doubt that show business has been enhanced by allowing the public to come behind the scenes and see what makes a star tick in every aspect of his life."

"What show business needs is a little more mystery."

Miss Blaine, who provides some of the more uproarious laughs in the hit Broadway musical, "Say Darling," also thinks many stars are getting entirely too folksy in their attire.

"Movie stars, male or female, make a big mistake in going around sloppily dressed," she remarked. "The fans look at them and ask, 'This is glamor?'"

"I don't say you have to be glittering all the time, but you certainly should be neat and well-groomed."

"Viv" feels the American housewife, as well as stars of stage, screen and television, could do with a bit more sprucing up.

"Women should dress up more—even if the only one who sees them during the day is the grocer," she said. "There is such a thing as self-respect and self-discipline."

"You can't let yourself go. If you let one thing go, everything can go."

Everyone, she believes, does well to create at least some aura of mystery, and to retain some area of personal privacy.

"How business today has become everybody's business," continued the sprightly blonde singer, frowning. "While fans are flattered to think they are in the real know, they also miss something—the chance to idolize and realize. If there is no mystery left, there is nothing to idealize."

How can the old glamor of the entertainment world be restored?

"I doubt if much can be done now," said Vivian frankly. "It would be a long and subtle process."

"You can't do it any more by having a star hide behind a wall that would only make Mr. and Mrs. American public break out laughing."

"They have tried to bring back the glamor bit, as in the case of Marilyn Monroe. But how? I'll bet the bust, waist, and hip measurements of Greta Garbo and Pola Negri weren't widely published. Their glamor was based on a sense of mystery."

Assures Workers of Legislative Voice

DeGaulle Eyes Weak Assembly for France, Strong Senate For Union

PARIS (AP) — Premier de Gaulle reportedly favors cutting the French Parliament in two, with a weakened National Assembly for continental France alone and a more powerful Senate for all of the French union.

De Gaulle won the power last week to draft a virtually new constitution for France and submit it directly to the voters. He is known to favor making the Senate the strong body and limiting the Assembly's power—the opposite of the present French system.

He discussed his views on constitutional reform with a delegation of the French Catholic Union of Christians today. He assured them he wanted workers to have a larger voice in the legislative system, Secretary General George Levard reported.

As De Gaulle talked with workers' representatives, his government announced that wholesale prices continued the inflationary rise which is one of his main problems, with food prices rising 8.8 per cent in May.

Economic affairs were the topic of one Cabinet meeting which De Gaulle called.

Paris buzzed with rumors that a meeting of De Gaulle, President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan was in the offing, but diplomats generally discounted them. The rumors were touched off when U.S. Ambassador Amory Houghton called on De Gaulle prior to leaving for the United States, where Eisenhower is conferring with Macmillan.

De Gaulle's proconsul for Algeria, Gen. Raoul Salan, claimed a bright spot in the North African troubles. He said in an interview that about 18,000 rebels have defected to the French since the nationalist rebellion for independence began in Algeria 43 months ago.

French authorities said 591 rebels were killed last week and 123 were captured. For three days last week, De Gaulle toured Algeria calling for reconciliation of the rebels and the French.

Ike Seeks Talk On A-Test Ban

Picks Geneva as Site To Meet Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today proposed to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev that technical talks begin July 1 in Geneva on methods of policing any possible future ban on nuclear tests.

The White House made public a letter from the President stating that the Swiss government has agreed to the Geneva site, which Eisenhower said would be preferable to Moscow.

Khrushchev, in agreeing to such talks, had suggested they be held in his own capital.

Eisenhower told the Russian Premier this government would not object to the inclusion of experts from Czechoslovakia and Poland on the Soviet side.

The Western Powers participating, he said, would be the United Kingdom, France, and possibly other countries in addition to the United States.

Eisenhower noted that Khrushchev has indicated the Soviet Union would not object to the inclusion of additional Western nations having experts in the field of nuclear test detection.

With respect to neutrals, Eisenhower told the Soviet Premier that "We have no objection in principle to their joining later in the discussions if it is agreed during the course of the talks that this is necessary or useful."

That might let such countries as India into the talks.

Eisenhower suggested that provision should be made for the talks to continue slightly longer than the three or four weeks which Khrushchev had suggested.

The presidential letter said: "These talks would be undertaken without commitment as to the final decision on the relationship of nuclear test suspension to other more important disarmament measures I have proposed."

Eisenhower's letter proposed that further details for the meeting be handled through normal diplomatic channels, thus terminating the top-level exchange of notes.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, here to confer with Eisenhower, had been informed of the contents of the reply.

Turkish Cypriots Loot Greek Stores

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Thousands of Turkish Cypriots looted Greek grocery stores and fruit stalls today. It was the fourth straight day of violence on the island.

Turks surged into the huge municipal market, which serves most of Nicosia's 50,000 people, and invaded Greek establishments. They took away baskets of fruit, carcasses of sheep and other food before order was restored.

The looting took place during a curfew break allowed so Turks could do their marketing.

Lawyer Backs Conviction of Gunman's Kin

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Herbert K. Hyde, former U.S. district attorney, testifies again today in defense of his prosecution of the widow and mother-in-law of George (Machine Gun) Kelly.

The hearing in U.S. District Court is on a motion to nullify their conviction and life sentence for kidnapping filed by Mrs. Kathryn Kelly, 54, and her mother Mrs. Ora Shannon, 70.

The women were convicted for their part in the $200,000 kidnapping and ransom of Charles Urschel, wealthy Oklahoma City oilman, in 1933.

Hyde Monday denied Mrs. Kelly's testimony that as many as 80 officers had questioned her about the case. Hyde said only seven or eight agents were assigned to the case.

The women alleged in their petition that their constitutional rights were violated at their trial here because of a "circus atmosphere" and publicity.

to Lorain where it put in at the Lorain Yacht Club at about 11:30 p.m.

Monday at 8:30 a.m. the scouts set sail from Lorain and were greeted by a Coast Guard cutter about a half-hour out of Mentor-on-the-Lake and informed that they had been reported missing. Mentor police met the ship at the dock.

The contingent arrived in Salem about 7:30 a.m. today. Mrs. Bearer termed the incident "ridiculous." She attributed the commotion to a lack of knowledge of sailing by some of the scouts' mothers.

She said the "unnecessary" search by the Coast Guard cost about $5,000.

One of the scouts said the alarm could have been avoided if they had been permitted to call their parents from Lorain.

The scouts who made the trip represent about half of the members of Troop 27. The remainder of the scouts plan to take their water training in August.

Board To Make Road Into New Building

The Board of Education last night voiced approval of a tentative contract with Harold B. Husted of Youngstown for installing a roadway off N. Lincoln Ave. to serve the gymnasium entrance and parking area of the city's new senior high school building.

The contractor and Darrel Fadely, school business manager, were to confer today on actual plans. The terms of the contract require Mr. Husted to design and engineer 1,000 feet of roadway leading up to the gymnasium entrance on the north side of the building. Plans call for this to be a double-lane roadway, each lane 16-feet wide, with an 8-foot divider strip, and a five-foot wide sidewalk running along the south side.

Mr. Husted will be employed on a per diem basis with his fee not to exceed $4,000. The board will determine, after reviewing Mr. Husted's design and cost plans, how much of the road can be completed this year.

The contractor indicated at a May 26 meeting with the board that a complete road would cost about $50,000.

Colorado Crop Faces Ruin by Grasshoppers

DENEVR (AP) — Eastern Colorado's 110-million-dollar bumper wheat crop faces ruin by the state's worst grasshopper invasion in 10 years.

Nearly nine million acres of rangeland and cropland in 16 counties are already infested. The blight extends into western Kansas and Montana.

The crisis is nearing rapidly in Colorado's eastern plains where hungry hoppers already have gorged on 10 per cent of the land's wheat.

"A horde of full-grown hoppers could clear an acre of wheat in 36 minutes," State Agriculture Commissioner Paul W. Swisher said today. "The insects have been working on some of the fields for a week."

"When you figure seven hoppers per square yard it becomes a critical problem."

Officials of the states affected are pressing for swift action, both by the federal government and landowners.

Experts say that if the hoppers aren't exterminated by mid-June it may be too late to save the crops.

Teachers for various departments are: nursery, Mrs. C. O. Armstrong; beginners, Mrs. Charles Cunningham and Mrs. Paul Morlan; primary, Mrs. Lida Davies; juniors, Mrs. Ralph Boso and Mrs. Dean Adams. Judy Ramsey is in charge of the music.

returned a directed verdict of acquittal after the defense pointed out that the crime charged in the indictment and the crime described in the state's testimony were not the same.

The former special officer's first trial for the Smith and Phillips burglary was started in May but was halted by a mistrial after a defense attorney was seen putting his arm about a woman juror in a friendly gesture on the courthouse steps.

Khrushchev

that the head of the Central Committee's Section on Propaganda and Agitation, F. V. Konstantinov, had been replaced by L. F. Ilyichev. Since this was the key Central Committee section under Suslov and Konstantinov was Suslov's protegee, this indicated a fall in Suslov's authority.

4. Khrushchev, speaking in Bulgaria June 3, made an all-out attack on theoreticians and an equally vigorous defense of the practical politicians. Ostensibly the vitriolic condemnation of empty theoreticians was directed at Yugoslav President Tito. But the real target may have been Suslov, the theoretician, as contrasted with Khrushchev, the practical politician.

5. To Central Committee on June 8 took the seemingly unnecessary step of rehabilitating the already rehabilitated leading composers — Dmitri Shostakovich, Aram Khachaturian and others — who were attacked as formalists in February 1948. This may well be a veiled attack on Suslov, since Suslov under Andrei Zhdanov was largely responsible in 1948 for the implementation of Stalin's policy of putting Soviet creative artists in a steel vise of Communist party control.

Inside Labor By Victor Riesel

Deadline for driving the crooks out of labor has been set for 1960 by Mr. Labor himself, George Meany, according to what is being said inside the sanctums of responsible men who spurn ordinary gossip. It is these men who are saying that Mr. Meany wants a cleansed labor movement by the end of 1959 so he can retire from the AFL-CIO presidency, leaving a clean comradely coalition behind him.

Mr. Meany will have passed his 65th birthday at the next national AFL-CIO convention somewhere on the West Coast in December '59.

It is at this convention, according to these reports, that Meany is represented as wishing to step down for work on an even broader international front.

If such reports spring up so consistently, conjecture over his successors cannot be far behind. And they aren't. These conjectures pivot upon a man who gives them the least encouragement. He is not coy.

He is Al J. Hayes, head of the International Association of Machinists, the union of a million people whose hands mold the vehicles of the future, on land, sea, and in the air, including outer space — in peace and in war.

HAYES COULD not be more typical if he were created by a battery of Jollywood producers ransacking the central casting office.

In his fifties, Hayes hunts, plays soft ball and, though a Democrat, plays a good and public game of golf.

He is a man of principle who will chew out his friends if he believes them wrong and welcome his political opponents if he believes them honest critics.

Typical was his guided tour through the Machinists' modern Washington headquarters of Sen. Barry Goldwater a fortnight ago.

It began when Hayes went up The Hill to testify before the Senate Labor Committee on proposed laws to head off infiltration of some big unions by crooks. Hayes said, come on over to our headquarters and see for yourselves that we're not all the same.

That afternoon, Hayes nearly dropped the phone when he heard Barry Goldwater's voice asking when they could set it up. The Republican senator, who most labor leaders hope will be the candidate least likely to succeed in next November's election, spent three cordial hours in the Machinists' building.

THE ARIZONA senator went through every office in the building — and saw how every member and every cent of the 30 million dollars assets are safeguarded.

Goldwater's eyes glistened as he saw a control system which listed the rights and equities of each of the one million machinists on individual cards — some going back to 1895. Every benefit each of these members is entitled to is punched on a business machine card.

Mr. Goldwater was shown the auditor's report — dispatched regularly to the union's 2,000 lodges. Later the senator told this reporter that few major funds could be better handled or invested than in the Machinists' treasury. This money is handled as a trust would invest its money — in highly rated stocks, bonds and debentures.

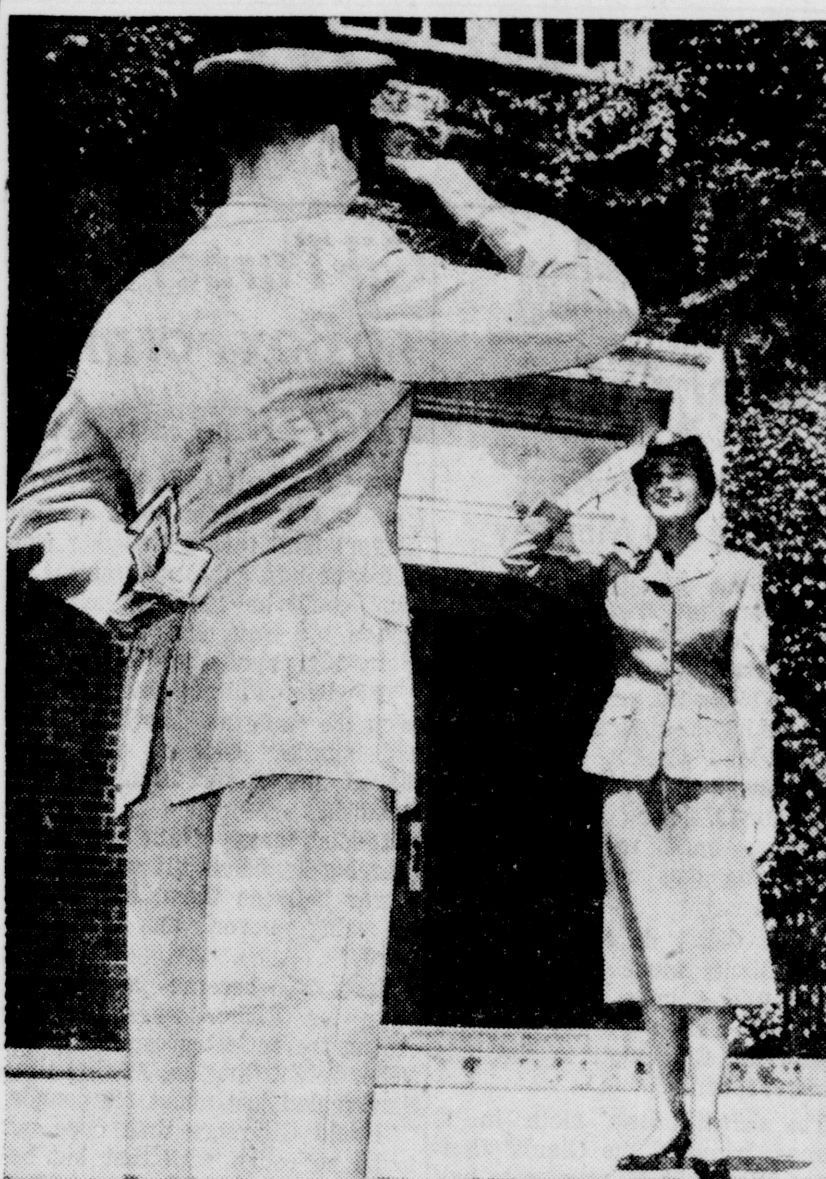

The senator was shown the records of the activities of some 900 field representatives of the national office. They are constantly servicing the members across the country, stepping in on "last step" grievances to avoid injustice to any worker or to his employer, if that happens to be the case.

THE SENATOR went into the built-in four-man law "firm" which works only for the Machinists. He saw the vast file consisting of 8,000 labor-management contracts covering 15,000 different operations in the U.S. and Canada. Each contract is analyzed to get the most for Mr. Hayes' followers — and a good day's work for the companies hiring them.

Sen. Goldwater told Mr. Hayes later, "We will probably disagree forever but the way you run this union is the ideal way to run any kind of business operation, be it labor or management."

Then the senator went back to the senatorial committee and told his colleagues, Democrats and Republicans, they ought to visit this organization and others too to see for themselves that, "All unions are not run out of cigar boxes."

That's why, during all those off the record discussions inside labor these past weeks, so many have conjectured about Al Hayes, chief of the ethical practitioners.

HISTORY AND MONEY—Janet Marshall made Air Force history when she became the first woman to be commissioned a 2nd lieutenant in the Women's Air Force under the new Reserve Officers Training Corps program. And Sgt. Gerald C. Purcell, of Superior, Neb., hit on an old but easy way to make a few dollars. Lieutenant Marshall, you see, will have to pay Sergeant Purcell one dollar for his being the first enlisted man to salute her after she received her commission at George Washington University. From the looks of that fistful of dollar bills, Purcell has been doing a land-office business. Miss Marshall, 21, is from Honolulu, T.H.

Judge All Wild Mushrooms Dangerous

"Is there a good safe way," a reader asks, "for telling whether a mushroom is edible or not?"

This is an important question, indeed. Every year a good many people pick mushrooms in the woods or fields, take them home and cook and eat them. Sometimes disastrous results occur and there are a good many deaths from mushroom poisoning.

There is no reliable test for determining whether mushrooms are edible or not. Such claims as that a mushroom is safe unless it turns silver black, fails to peel, or is found next to a rusty nail cannot be counted on.

Indeed, the popular method of testing the edibility of mushrooms by preliminary tasting is particularly dangerous. One of the most poisonous mushrooms is said to have a good flavor — but I hope never to try it.

The only safe mushrooms to eat are those which are commercially cultivated.

In the United States most cases of poisoning are caused by mushrooms of the amanita family, the best known of which is sometimes called the "death angel." The poison from the "death angel," or amanita phalloides, is technically known as a toxin.

About six to 18 hours after eating this dangerous mushroom the symptoms begin to appear.

These usually consist of nausea, vomiting, diarrhea and severe abdominal pains. There may be great thirst, inability to urinate, dizziness, jaundice after two or three days and unconsciousness.

More than half of those poisoned by the "death angel," die, generally about five to eight days after eating the mushrooms.

There is no good treatment for mushroom poisoning of this kind, although if the stomach can be washed out early, most of the toxin is removed and the chances of recovery are somewhat better.

Another type of poisonous mushroom is called amanita muscaria.

or the "fly amanita." The poison of this mushroom is related to a drug commonly used in medicine called pilocarpine.

The symptoms appear early — usually within three hours after eating this mushroom. When death follows it is usually within 24 hours.

In addition to the symptoms of vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal pain, there is also sweating, watering of the eyes, narrowing of the pupils of the eyes, slow pulse and, in fatal cases, convulsions and unconsciousness.

If identified early enough this kind of mushroom poisoning can be treated with atropine. In such properly treated cases about nine out of ten recover.

It is surely unwise to pick mushrooms in the woods when safe ones can be bought so easily. Even experts have been caught by failure to tell whether certain mushrooms were edible or were poisonous.

Countians Urged To Contact SSA For Information

Residents of Mahoning and Columbiana counties were urged today by William J. McCauley, district manager of the Youngstown office, to get in touch with the Social Security Administration for information regarding payments under the old-age and survivors insurance program.

Mr. McCauley stated that his office encounters numerous instances of applicants for benefits who have relied on erroneous or misleading advice received from friends or relatives. As a result, they have mistaken ideas about requirements for social security payments and the amount of the payments they will receive.

In several recent cases, failure to obtain correct information before reaching retirement age has had serious effects on the applicant's plans for retirement, he added.

The Youngstown office of the Social Security Administration receives all applications for retirement and survivors payments from residents of Mahoning and Columbiana counties.

In addition the office receives applications for disability payments from qualified workers 50 years of age or more and applications to "freeze" the wage records of disabled workers under age 50.

Since Jan. 1, 1958, the Youngstown has forwarded 883 applications for retirement or survivors payments and 260 applications for disability payments.

Informational material regarding all phases of the social security insurance program is available at the local office, and a representative of the office is normally available to meet with groups desiring a speaker.

Mr. McCauley suggested that all students who plan to work during the summer vacation, and who have not obtained a social security card, do so immediately. Application blanks for cards can be obtained at the local office or at the post office nearest their homes.

The game, rummy, gets its name from the British word, "rum" which means odd or queer.

Spack's Two Homers Pace Tolson To Win Over Sportsmen

Deming's Rips Christians 12-3

Drive-In Theater Blanks Fireside Inn

Two home runs by Al Spack, good for four RBIs, paced Tolson's to a 4-2 win over the Sportsmen Club last night at Kelley Park.

In two other contests, Deming's blasted the Christian Church 12-3 and Drive-In Theater blanked Fireside Inn 8-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Bruce Feicht.

Tolson's got only four hits off loser Boone, but Spack's two big blows made the difference.

Fowler was the winner, permitting but five hits.

Six runs in the top of the sixth cut short the Deming's and Christian game. The victor's 12 hit attack was led by three raps by Dan Rayniak, including a triple. The losers got only four hits off Al Lewis. Orlan Sanor took the loss.

Drive-In Theater scored in every frame but the first in blasting Fireside on a six-inning game.

Bill Ferguson had two hits for the winners. Larry Bowersock was the losing pitcher.

League rules stipulate a team is an automatic winner if it leads by eight runs after five full innings. The rule explains why the last two games went only six innings.

Today's schedule is:

6:30, Lincoln vs Bliss

7:45, Columbiana vs Friends

9, Dairy v. East Liverpool

Kemacs Saddle Club To Hold Horse Show

Preliminary plans for a horse show in August were made at a meeting of the Kemacs Saddle Club Saturday night in the club rooms at the Circle J. Ranch.

Te' Albright presided. A special meeting will be held June 28 to map the publicity campaign for the show.

Reports of the recent horse show were read by Janet DeVille, treasurer.

Five new members were received. They are Jack Sadler, Joe Vernon, Jack Hartman, Jean Reynolds and Tom Reynolds.

After the meeting, a spaghetti dinner and dance were enjoyed. Music was provided by Bill Hall, Jim Summers and Mrs. A. E. Albright.

The next regular meeting will be July 5 in the club rooms.

Jensen's Booming Bat Boosts Red Sox' Climb

BOSTON (AP)—The Boston Red Sox were within percentage points of second place today with a six-game unbeaten streak sparked by the booming bat of "Golden Boy" Jackie Jensen.

The one-time University of California football star is assuming the role of Boston's No. 1 power hitter with Ted Williams' bat comparatively silent. Jensen has hit 14 homers and driven in 44 runs to trail Kansas City's Bob Cerv by only one in each department for the American League leadership.

Orioles Drop Indians Into Fifth Place Tie

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Cleveland Indians passed the one-third mark in the 1958 American League season Monday night. Baltimore's Billy O'Dell made it an unhappy juncture with a four-hitter that dropped the Tribe into a virtual tie for fifth place with the Orioles.

The little southpaw gave up two runs in the first inning on two hits, then stopped the Indians cold for 8 1-3 innings as the Orioles won the opener of a four-game night series here, 5-2. Rocky Colavito collected two of the four Cleveland hits and raised his batting average to .296.

The one encouraging note for the Indians was the sparkling showing of Bob Lemon. The veteran right-hander took a big stride on his comeback campaign with a five-inning relief stint, his longest chore on the mound this season. He yielded two hits and one run after coming on to relieve

Major Leagues Have Many Fin Relief Pitchers This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—So many awards are being handed out each year for outstanding individual performances in the major leagues it is almost impossible to keep track of them all.

Therefore one more won't hurt. How about honoring the best relief pitcher in each league?

There are a lot of good ones this year. Don McMahon of Milwaukee, Duke Farrell of Philadelphia, Clem Labine of Los Angeles, Marv Grissom of San Francisco, Riney Duren of New York, Dick Hyde of Washington, Hoyt Wilhelm of

County Archers In Round Robin Event

Columbiana County archers traveled to Warren Sunday for the first round of the East Ohio Archery League competition.

Team scores, figured on a point basis, showed the Deer Creek archers of Alliance, the Thunderbird Archers of Youngstown and the Trumbull Archery Club all tied with 16 points each. The Columbiana County Archers had 11 points.

President James Cunningham hopes the county club will have a better turnout at later shoots since that was a deciding factor in the loss. There will be three more rounds, one at each of the remaining clubs, with the next one scheduled July 13 at the Thunderbird course at Youngstown. The points will accumulate from round to round and awards will be made at a banquet after the final round.

After the shoot, election of officers for the league was held and Ralph Thompson, Trumbull Archery club was named president, and Paul Kuhns, secretary of Columbiana County archers, was elected secretary - treasurer of the league. Eric Gudat, vice president of local club, was named delegate.

Eljer defeated Youngstown Kitchens 9-5 Saturday and won over Sekely's 13-5 last night.

Jerry Jeffries was the winning pitcher and Dick Capel the loser Saturday. Last night, Dick Switzer took the win and Butch Crawford, the loss.

Jim Anderson had a triple and Randy Reed two doubles for Eljer Saturday, while the pair along with Dave Woolf had two hits each last night.

Redlegs Now On Win Trail; Purkey Stars

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Well, it looks like the Cincinnati Redlegs have finally got the hang of winning on the road.

They came into St. Louis today on the next-to-last leg of their current trip boasting a 5-2 win record. That includes a four-game series with the league-leading San Francisco Giants against whom Cincinnati won three times.

The performance boosted the Redlegs into third place just 3½ games behind the Giants.

On their last extended road trip the Redlegs came home with only four wins as against eight losses.

For tonight's opener of a three-game series with the Cardinals, southpaw Harvey Haddix (3-3) will go to the mound for the Redlegs while another left hander Wilmer Mizell (3-5) will hurl for St. Louis.

In Monday's finale with the Giants, Redleg Bob Purkey pitched a brilliant six-hitter for his fifth straight win, 3-0, and eighth triumph in nine trips to the mound.

The Redlegs got only six hits off Giant starter Johnny Antonelli. But one was a home run by Steve Bilko with one aboard in the fourth to put the Redlegs out in front 2-0.

The insurance run came in the seventh when Don Hoak singled to left, went to second on Ed Bailey's sacrifice and scored on Eddie Miksis' single.

Only two Giants got to third base off Purkey. He struck out three and did not issue a walk. The shutout was Purkey's second of the year.

Softball Schedule Changes Announced

The following changes in playing times and dates for Salem Softball Association games were announced today by Dave Briskin, executive secretary.

The 4 p.m., June 15 game will pit Tolson's against Bliss and not against Drive-In Theatre. Tolson's will play Drive-In Theatre July 2 at 6:30.

The following four makeup games are set for July 5: 5:56, Ray's Beverage vs Sportsmen's Club; 6:45, Stepanic vs Hanover; 7:45, Bayard Grange vs East Liverpool; and 8:45, Herron's vs Jack's Bar.

The July 14, 6:30 game between Friends and Tolson has been cancelled.

The annual All-Star games will be played July 23. At 7 p.m., the Class A All-Stars will play Bloomberg's, last year's champs, and at 8:30, the Class AA All-Stars will meet Old Dutch, 1957 champ.

The Columbiana County tourney will be held the week of Aug. 16-23. Briskin said it will be a double elimination tourney, and entry fees will be $15 per team.

Mays' Batting Average Slips

Hitless Four Days, Willie 0-4 Monday

By The Associated Press
Holy smoke! Lookit Willie! Just four days ago nobody could get Willie out. He was 7-for-7, and 16-for-19, gaining 26 points and taking the National League batting lead a .433.

He hasn't had a hit since, going 0-for-12, losing 25 points and tumbling back to .408, almost where he was when the spurt started.

Willie didn't do the San Francisco Giants much good Monday, going 0-for-4 in a 3-0 defeat as once-beaten Bob Purkey won his eighth for Cincinnati in the only game scheduled.

The defeat, their ninth in 13 games, trimmed the Giants' first-place edge over Milwaukee to half a game and .003 percentage points while the Redlegs took full charge of third place, 3½ games back.

In the American League, Boston moved within .003 percentage points of second-place Kansas City by whipping Detroit 9-4. Baltimore defeated Cleveland 5-2. Rain postponed the only other game scheduled, with the Chicago White Sox ahead 7-1 in the fourth inning at Washington.

Purkey, a right-hander who never has had a winning season in the majors, won his fifth in a row with a six-hitter. He walked none and struck out three.

A two-run homer by Steve Bilko, his fourth, wrapped it up for the Redlegs in the fourth against southpaw Johnny Antonelli, now 5-4. The Reds also had six hits.

PHILLIES SIGN OHIOAN

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies have signed Larry Baughman, 18-year-old Lancaster High School catcher, to a bonus contract. No figure was mentioned. Baughman, who graduated last Friday, reports to Philadelphia Thursday for reassignment to a minor league club.

Gil Turner To Box Former Sparring Mate

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Old friends Gil Turner and Garnet (Sugar) Hart turn a five-year ring cold war into a hot one tonight in what could be Turner's last shot at the big time and the first of many big payoffs for young Hart.

The two Philadelphians come from the same neighborhood, have had similar careers and have shared the same trainer, Willie Reddish.

Reddish says of their frequent sparring sessions: "It was always a war between them, but outside the ring never an unfriendly word."

Hart, 22, became a sparring mate for Turner when Gil was among the hottest prospects in the welterweight division. At that time Hart scaled just about 110 pounds.

"I told Gil more than once not to be so rough with that kid because the day will come when Skinny (Hart) could turn on him," Reddish said.

Hart feels the time to turn is now and predicts a victory. He'll enter the ring about a 7-5 favorite. Turner claims he'll show he's still master.

The 10-rounder will not be televised.

Reddish didn't want to pick sides so he didn't train either fighter for this bout.

Turner, a 27, is trying for another chance at the top names. He's fought virtually all the ranking welterweights, and some of the middleweights, in a career of 73 bouts. He has won 55, 35 by knockouts, lost 17 and had one draw. His experience and aggressiveness will be pitted against Hart's youth, greater speed and counter-punching ability. Sugar is 25-3-1 with 20 knockouts.

Junior Baseball Benefit Dance Set for Friday

Johnny Vadnal and his orchestra of Cleveland will play for the Salem Junior Baseball benefit dance Friday from 9:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at the Hi-Neighbor Barn Dance Hall south of Salem on the Pidgeon Road.

The public is invited to the dance which will raise funds for the Salem Junior Baseball League.

Over 600 boys have signed to play baseball this season, John Herman, Jr., league president, reports.

Twenty-eight teams are playing in age groups ranging from seven to 20 years. More teams will be formed as soon as the summer Bible schools are over.

It is the hope of the league officials to be able to give each boy an opportunity to play, Mr. Herman said.

No boy will be turned down if he wishes to play as long as he comes out to practice, he added.

The Salem Junior Baseball League depends upon the sponsors and the general public for support.

Periodic benefit projects help to raise funds for various teams which do not have sponsors and for the extra costs of equipment to keep the boys all playing.

Orioles' Loes, Problem Man, Rejoins Team

BALTIMORE (AP) — Problem pitcher Billy Loes, as unpredictable as ever, has rejoined the Baltimore Orioles and says he is ready to pitch again for Manager Paul Richards. But he would rather pitch for someone else.

The outspoken 28-year-old right-hander left no doubt about why he reconsidered an earlier announcement that he would never play for Richards again.

"I'll pitch because that's the way I make my living, not because I think Richards is the greatest man in the world," Loes said. "Sure I guess I could quit, but I'd be crazy to do that."

While Loes was sitting out a dual suspension—six days by the American League and three days by Richards — he repeated his wish to be traded to another club. He said the same thing even before the suspension, with the New York Yankees undeniably the team of his dreams.

Loes said Monday night he would "do my best and try to win" for Baltimore, but in almost the next breath indicated he wouldn't mind donning another uniform. Richards had a brief conference with Loes before the reinstated player pitched batting practice. The manager said as far as he was concerned "it's a closed incident. We'll re-deal the cards and wipe the slate clean."

Both the league and Richards fined Loes $100 in addition to the suspension without pay after the pitcher shoved umpire Larry Napp during an argument over a play at the plate here June 1. Napp called Washington's Ken Aspromonte safe as Loes tried for a tag in a run-down play. Loes slammed the ball to the ground, allowing another run to score, and was ejected by Napp.

Gus Triandos slugged his 12th homer, with two on, in the first for the Orioles, who rode in on the four-hit pitching of Billy O'Dell. In the last 1-3 innings, the 25-year-old southpaw faced only 26 men, one over the minimum, and allowed only two singles after giving up the Cleveland runs on J. W. Porter's two-out double in the first. Cal McLish (2-3) was the loser for the Indians.

The White Sox collected their seven hits off Al Cicotte and Chuck Stobbs. Tito Francona hit a home run.

Schmidt Complains After TKO Defeat

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Schmidt complained bitterly because the doctor wouldn't let him come out for the 10th round against Tony DeCola.

"If he let me fight the last two minutes of the ninth, why couldn't I fight the tenth?" asked Schmidt in his dressing room at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night.

Schmidt was gashed over the left eye early in the ninth. After an examination in his corner at the end of the ninth, Dr. Alexander Schiff of the New York State Athletic Commission refused to let him continue. Under New York rules it went as a ninth round technical knockout with DeCola the winner.

The officials were divided on their scoring through nine rounds, so that the winner of the 10th would have been the victor.

Schmidt, 145½, Romanian-born but now a New Yorker like his opponent, expected to have three or four stitches taken in the cut at Polyclinic Hospital, Decola, 146, also had a slight eye cut.
